CORDIAL SEND-OFF FOR MR. CHAMBERLAIN ON FIRST STAGE OF VISIT TO MUSSOLINI

LORD HALIFAX

Possible Discussion On Spain Truce During Stay In French Capital

PREPARATIONS FOR WELCOME IN ROME

LONDON, Jan. 10 (REUTERS).—PURSUING THE POLICY OF PERSONAL CONTACTS BETWEEN THE HEADS OF COUNTRIES, the Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, left London at 11 o'clock this morning, to start the first stage of his visit to Signor Mussolini. Mr. Chamberlain is accompanied by the Foreign Secretary, Lord Halifax, their advisers and secretaries.

Crowds assembled in Downing Street and Whitehall gave Mr. Chamberlain a cordial send-off. An hour before the Prime Minister left many telegraph boys called at Number 10 with messages many bearing good wishes. Mrs. Chamberlain came to the entrance of the hall to say goodbye to her husband who carried in his left hand the now world renowned umbrella, neatly rolled and gold mounted.

There were cheers and cries of "good luck" when Mr. Chamberlain's car turned down Whitehall. Hundreds of people were gathered at Victoria Station to watch the British delegation leave. Mr. Chamberlain made no statement.

While the crowds were waiting for Mr. Chamberlain's arrival a party of unemployed appeared in another part of the station carrying the now familiar black coffin and banner inscribed, "Appease the unemployed, not Mussolini!"

The demonstrators made a concerted move towards the platform from where the special train was departing but a cordon of police held them back.

The French Ambassador, M. Corbin, and the Italian Charge d'Affaires greeted the Prime Minister.

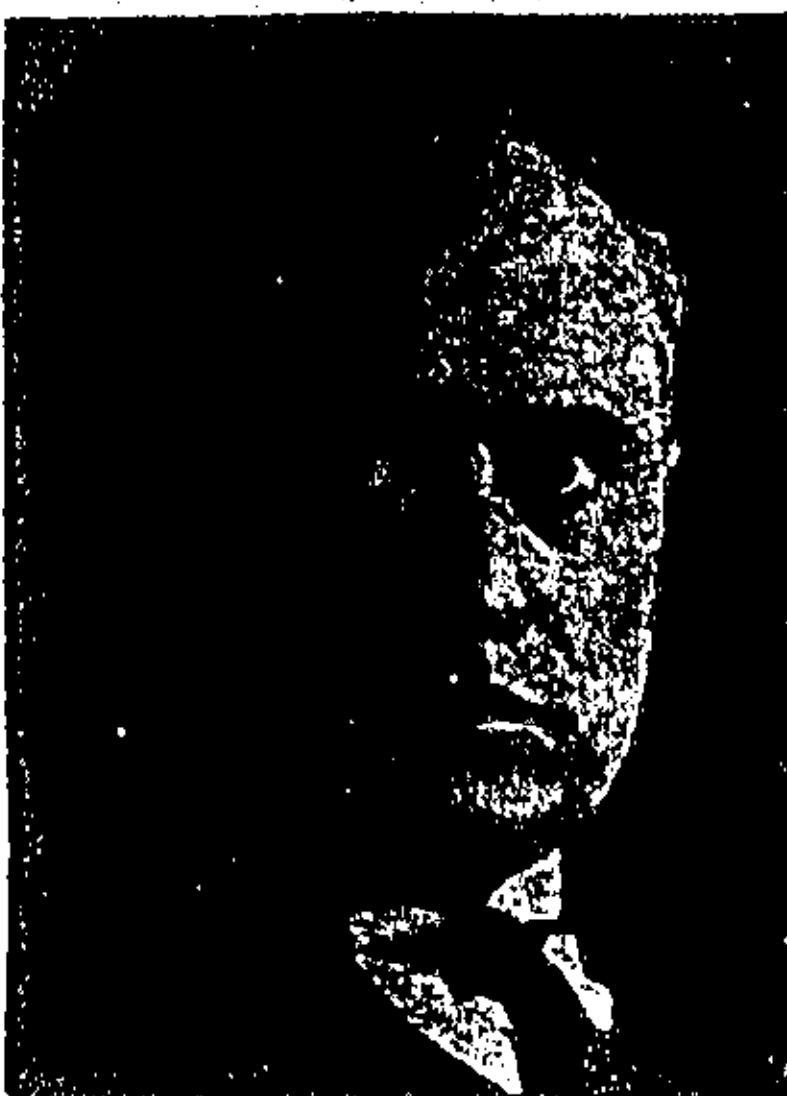

As the train drew out of the station the people lining the platform cheered and Mr. Chamberlain smilingly waved his hand in acknowledgment.

From the distance came boos and jeers from the unemployed. The coffin carried by the unemployed was badly damaged in a scuffle near the platform from where Mr. Chamberlain left.

EXPLORATION

LONDON, Jan. 9 (Reuters).—Exploration, rather than negotiation, is likely to be the keynote of the Rome talks says "Reuters" diplomatic correspondent.

Mr. Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax are going with no preconceived ideas and no formal agenda nor have they received from the Italian side any precise indications

GUERRILLAS CONTINUE "HIDE AND SEEK" GAME WITH THE JAPANESE

Canton-Hankow Railway Heavily Damaged

CHUNGKING, January 10 (Central).—While the general lull is unbroken on various fronts, Chinese guerrillas are continuing their "hide and seek" game with the Japanese. Always avoiding a pitched battle, the guerrillas disperse of their own accord whenever a large Japanese force arrives, but return as soon as it has left.

According to foreign reports from Shanghai, the much-publicised Japanese "sweeping-up" campaign in the Pootung and west Shanghai areas, launched about two months ago, has ended in complete failure as a result of the elusiveness of the Chinese.

In neither of the two areas are the mobile fighters less than two months ago. On the contrary, there is a noticeable increase of their number in west Shanghai.

Nanwei and Fengsten, two important towns in Pootung which have repeatedly changed hands, are now again under the control of the guerrillas. A part of the guerrillas in south Pootung have even crossed the Whangpoo River and are now operating along the Shanghai-Minghong highway. Fighting also took place a few days ago at Kuan-yangtang on the Shanghai-Tsingpu highway.

GREAT ADVANTAGE

On the Hupeh-Hunan border where the hilly terrain constitutes a great advantage for guerrilla activities the Japanese troops are failing no better. Last Saturday night, a report from Guangsha states, the guerrillas altered into Linsiang, northeast of Yoyang, and destroyed two Japanese tanks. They retired to their base safely.

SPANISH WAR PROGRESS

Loyalists' Advance Continues

BARCELONA, Jan. 10 (T/Ocean).—The resistance of the Nationalists has been broken on the Cordova front and in spite of all efforts to reinforce the front the Republican troops have broken through and are advancing in the direction of Montserrat de la Serena and del Sobo. It is reported in a bulletin issued by the Republican Ministry of National Defence.

Among other important positions occupied were the heights of Picuda where a great number of prisoners were also taken and an extensive amount of munitions and supplies captured.

On the Catalan front the enemy attacks on the heights 433 and 429 were repulsed. The enemy lost one tank and suffered heavy damages. The Republican operations were assisted greatly by the air force which effectively bombed the enemy lines at different points.

Five Nationalist planes bombed the harbour section of this city yesterday evening killing six persons and injuring twelve. The extent of property damage has not yet been ascertained.

Japanese Suffer Heavy Casualties In Attack On Triangle Island

Chinese Troops' Advance From North Imminent

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

CHUNGSHAN, January 10.—Chinese batteries and garrison at Kum Lee, on the south bank of the West River, succeeded in repelling a Japanese attack from Ma How on Triangle Island and inflicted heavy casualties on January 8, according to a report reaching here to-day.

The Japanese attack on Kum Lee was preceded by a barrage but all efforts to land at Kum Lee were in vain in the face of heavy Chinese fire with machine-guns and one-pounders.

Having failed to advance, the Japanese high command ordered 30 bombers to bomb and strafe the Chinese positions. One hundred bombs were dropped on Kum Lee and blew up rows of houses. Casualties among the troops were slight.

Anticipating imminent Chinese attacks from the north, the Japanese have increased their strength at Chungia and Taipingchang to 3,000 infantrymen, 500 cavalry, and two battalions of artillery. It appears that the Japanese are in occupation only of a part of Chungia, while the remainder is in Chinese hands.

Japanese bluejackets on Jan. 7 attempted to make a landing at Yulankong, on south Hainan Island. They were fired at by the shore garrison and batteries, and eventually retreated without effecting a landing.

It is believed that these skirmishes are but feelers of the Chinese defence strength. Japanese planes have been active during the past several days reconnoitering over Chinese positions. With the formation of a new government in

Many Perish In Shekki Air Raid

Heavy civilian casualties were suffered in Shekki, Chungshan district, on Monday as the result of a surprise Japanese air raid, according to reports reaching Hongkong yesterday.

At least 100 persons are said to have been killed when bombs landed on the offices of the district magistrate, a girl's middle school and the power plant, which was set on fire. Most of the unfortunate victims are stated to be women and girls.

A "Central News" report states that the Japanese airmen flew low after bombing the town and machine-gunned the startled populace.

A general exodus to Macao has begun, and housing accommodation in the Portuguese Colony is again greatly taxed.

PUSHING TOWARDS BOCCA TIGRIS

SZEWEI, KWANGTUNG, Jan. 10 (Central).—Bocca Tigris, now under Japanese occupation, has come to the attention of Chinese guerrillas who have been recently reorganised and put under a unified command.

A unit is reported to have reached Wongkong, approximately midway between Bocca Tigris and Po On, and to be pushing their way to the strategic forts. Taiping, about 40 miles northwest of Po On, is also threatened by guerrillas.

Units of Japanese troops are said to be concentrated at Nqihoh, to the east of Kongmoon. An invasion of the latter district is feared.

Five hundred reinforcements, composed mostly of Manchurians and Koreans, have been sent to the Tsengshing sector.

PIRACY ATTEMPT FOILED

British Gunboat To Rescue

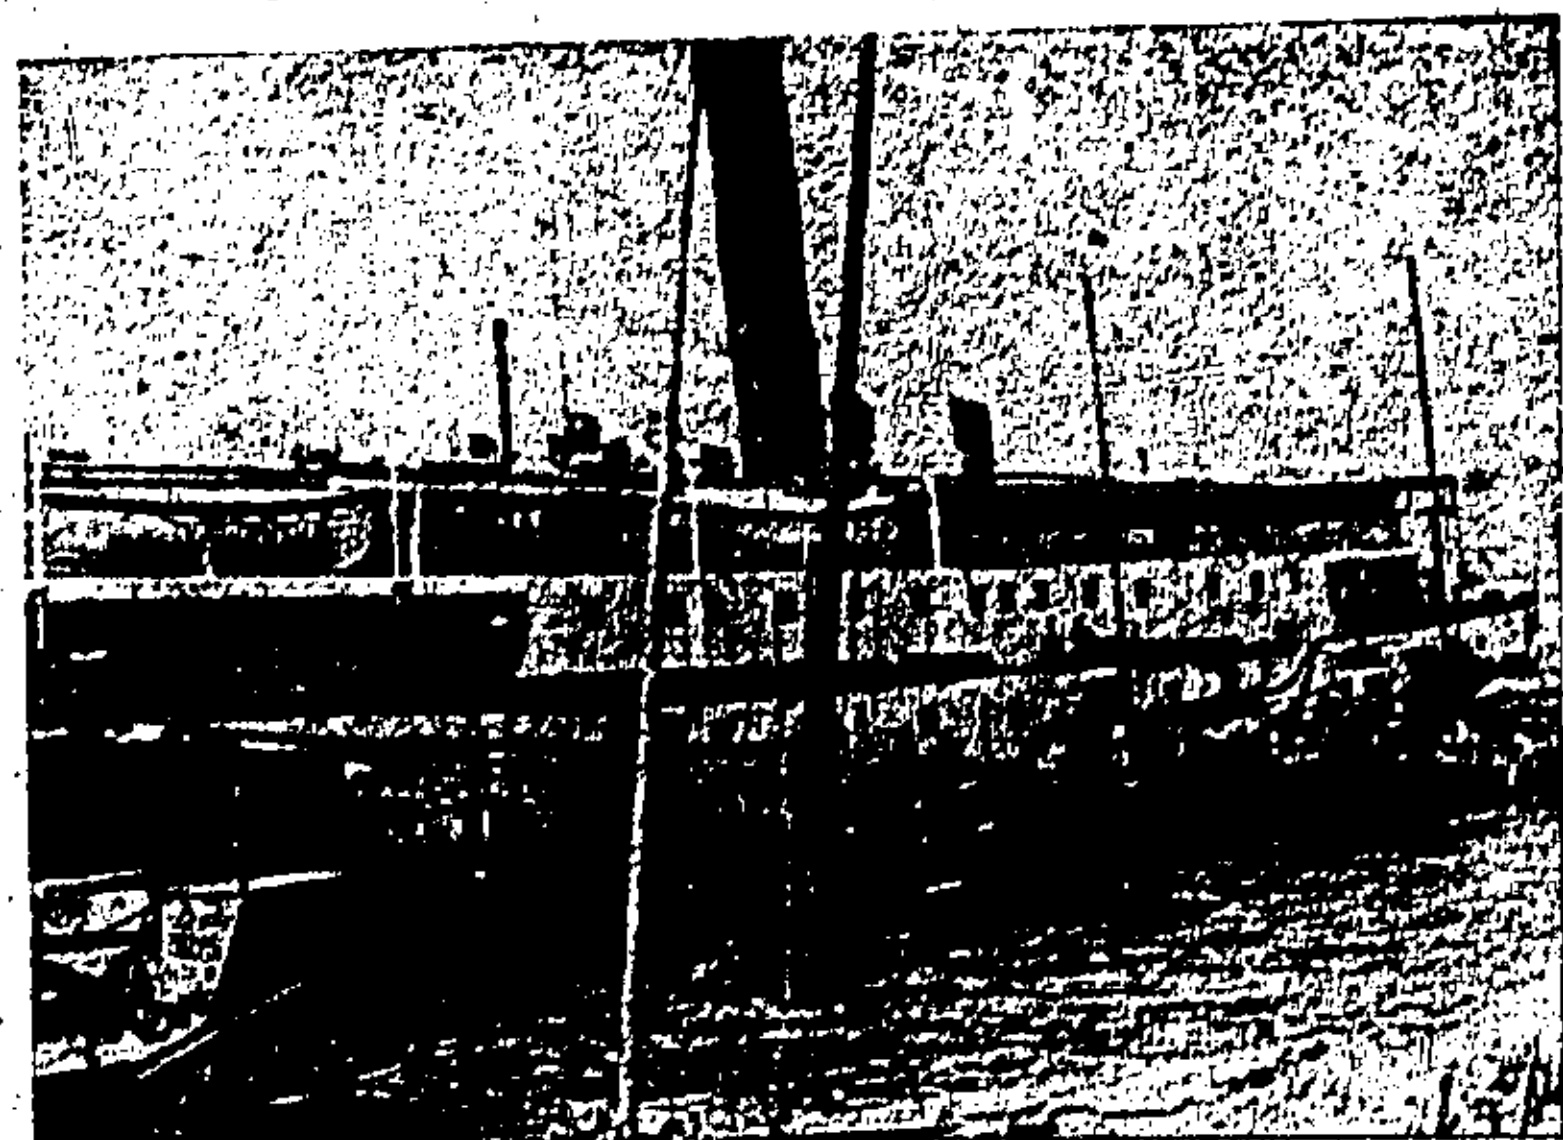

SHANGHAI, Jan. 10 (Reuters).—Responding to a distress message, H.M.S. Tern, lying off Woosung, got up steam and raced to the help of the Jardine tug Han Wo which was attacked by four junks manned by pirates early yesterday afternoon.

The tug was towing three lighters from lower Yangtze ports to Shanghai.

Despite machine-gun fire the Chinese master of the tug kept at the wheel while a wireless message was sent out calling for help.

On sighting H.M.S. Tern the junks gave up the chase and eluded capture in the falling darkness.

Wang is reported to be depressed by the unfavourable reactions to

WANG'S ARREST DEMANDED

It is reliably learned that Gen. Huang Hsu-chu, Chairman of the Kwangsi Provincial Government, and the Provincial Commissioners have sent telegrams to the National Government, the Central Kuomintang Headquarters and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and to the chairmen of various provincial governments, urging the arrest of Wang Ching-wei for defection.

his peace proposals and is further dejected by the downfall of Prince Konoys.

Some Chinese leaders have gone so far as to demand the arrest of Wang, while criticisms of his peace move are almost unanimous among Chinese public bodies at home and abroad.

DRESSED AS PEDLAR

TOKYO, Jan. 10 (T/Ocean).—Wang Ching-wei, who has been living in a Hanoi suburb, according to Japanese reports, left last night for an unknown destination. Fearing attempts by Chinese nationalists to assassinate him he was disguised as a poor pedlar and was accompanied only by two servants similarly clad.

Six players, a referee and four spectators of a football match played recently gave evidence at Ramsgate when Jack Watson, of Broad-street, Ramsgate, was fined £1 for assaulting Cecil Brynley Howells, of Roman-road, Ramsgate.

It was stated that during a game between Ramsgate Unemployed and Swann's United, Howells, centre-forward for United, who was making tracks for goal, was tackled by Watson, right back for the Unemployed.

When Watson was on the ground he caught hold of Howells' ankle. The two players rose, and each alleged that the other struck the first blow. Howells was in hospital for nine days with a fractured jaw.

In support of Howells' statement that Watson was the aggressor five of his fellow-players and two spectators gave evidence. Watson, who said that he struck in self-defence, called one player, two spectators and the referee.

MACAO DEFEATS H.K. NAVAL HOCKEY TEAM

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Macao, Jan. 8. The Macao Hockey Club scored an easy victory over a visiting Hongkong naval side at Tap-seach this afternoon, winning by four clear goals. Outstanding on the local side were P. Angelo and Alex Alrosa, both playing centre positions.

Macao drew first blood when, after a few minutes of opening play, Alb. Alrosa scored from a sharp angle during a rush-in. Resuming play, the local forwards executed a snappy movement, A. Angelo swinging the ball across the field to P. Nolasco who centred perfectly, but the inside forwards missed the opportunity of scoring. Before half-time came, P. Angelo cashed out of a scrimmage and dribbled the ball past the Navy custodian.

Soon after play began in the second half, P. Angelo scored again easily. The Navy forwards pressed hard on the Macao goal but missed several chances of netting the ball. Towards the closing stage of the game, A. Alrosa scored from a melee in the Navy circle.

The teams were as follows:—MACAO H.C.: Almada; Rosatio, Costa; Ferreira, Alex Alrosa, J. Nolasco; Angelo, H. Rosario, P. Angelo, Alb. Alrosa, F. Nolasco. NAVY: Sprout-Bolton; Steele-Ferkins, Mars; Roberts, Kennedy, Gunnar, Anderson, Woods, Skelton, Webster, Miller.

NAVY MARRIAGE ALLOWANCES. Mr. Shakespeare, Parliamentary Secretary to the Admiralty, replying to Vice-Admiral Taylor (Cons., Paddington S.), said that it had recently been decided to include Colonels R.M. in the marriage allowance scheme. This would involve the concession of removal allowances.

Though flag officers were not included in the marriage allowance scheme it had been found possible to concede to them removal allowances in respect of home shore appointments and free passages for their wives and families when proceeding to commands abroad where official residences were provided.

TWIN BORN 61 HOURS APART

Sixty-one hours elapsed between the birth of twins at Kildgrove, Stoke-on-Trent, it was disclosed recently.

Mrs. Lily Hancock, of Chapel-street, gave birth to a girl at her home, and on the following day was removed to hospital. There, 61 hours later, a boy was born. The mother and twins are doing well.

Twins were born 53 hours apart at Farnham, Surrey, and a famous London surgeon said that so long an interval was extremely rare.

In August last year twins were born a day apart to Mrs. Eric Humphries, the playwright—known as Miss Sally Carson.

Four years ago a woman gave birth to a child on the Isle of Scarpia. Two days later being hurried by stretcher boat and motor to Stormway, she gave birth to a second child 48 miles away.

Wing Commander G. O. Venn, late Senior Personnel Staff Officer with No. 4 (Bomber) Group at Mildenhall, has taken up a similar post with the R.A.F. in Iraq, in succession to Wing Commander A. S. Ellerton, O.B.E., who has been appointed for air staff duties in the Training Command at home.

NEW SQUADRON LEADER. Promotions to squadron leader in the December list include that of Flight Lieutenant Henry Eeles, Personal Assistant to the Chief of the Air Staff, Air Chief Marshal Sir Cyril Newall.

"For reasons of secrecy it is not possible to display the best illustrations which we could give of our interest in science and our application of its researches.

Mr. Hore-Belisha declared that the soldier could not live a day, move a yard, or fire a shot without resort to the applied results of the workshop and the laboratory.

The War Minister mentioned that this year £3,000,000 was spent by the Army on scientific research, development, testing, design, and inspecting.

VISCOUNT CECIL ON REARMAMENT

"Fear Of Germany"

We are arming because we are afraid Germany might use her immense air armaments against us," said Viscount Cecil of Chelwood in an address on permanent peace at Cardiff recently.

"It is no use concealing these facts, this is the truth," he declared. "I deeply regret they should have rejected all international co-operation. I do not believe that in modern days friendship can be maintained except by some form of organised peace."

Germany did not recognise officially—although he believed the majority of the German people did—that justice, mercy, or honour bound governments in their dealings with other people if the narrow and direct interests of the country seemed to demand a course inconsistent with those principles.

"The present international position is lamentable," added Lord Cecil. "For the moment force is triumphant, but if the peace-loving Powers exert themselves the League can be saved."

MADCAP COMEDY OF SAILORS

Martha Raye, Bob Hope, Betty Grable and Jack Whiting have the leading roles in "Give Me a Sailor". Paramount's madcap comedy about sailors on shore leave, which is being shown at the Queen's Theatre to-day.

The story concerns a contract, made in childhood, by which two brothers promise to marry two sisters, and the efforts of one of the young men to evade its terms. As the plot unfolds, Miss Raye, the ugly duckling of the family, turns into a beauty with a nation-wide reputation and the winner of a coast-to-coast legs contest, while her sister, Miss Grable, loses out on the field of love when she turns out to be a dunce in the kitchen.

AND THE STORY OF THE KING WHO WANTS TO 'STUNT'

King Ghazi of Iraq, who is twenty-six and the only air pilot king in the world, has taken delivery of a British Magister plane—the R.A.F.'s latest stunt and advanced flying trainer. And he has told his Ministers that he wants to fly it alone.

The young king made his first flight in 1928, when as a small boy he was taken up to look down at his new school, Harrow. As soon as he was old enough he took flying lessons.

Five years ago, when his father died and he became king, his Ministers objected to his flying. They stopped him flying in Molson's Australia air race Comet. But later they allowed him to buy a Dragonfly five-seater plane for state journeys.

Now King Ghazi, who motor-cycles in shorts through Baghdad, has gone in for something more "sporty." His open-cockpit Magister has full stunt-flying harness.

STRAITS CHINESE AT THE FRONT PRAISED

Dr. Hoops' Rotary Address

Reference to Dr. Lim Boon Keng's son and nephew, who are fighting in China, was made by Dr. A. L. Hoops at the Singapore Rotary Club meeting recently. "They are doing their part very nobly and distinguishing themselves greatly," he said.

Medical men of Malaya honoured and admired Dr. Lim Boon Keng, who was the grand old man of Malaya added Dr. Hoops.

Some of the Chinese soldiers were "as plucky as any man in the world," said Dr. Hoops, and he included those Straits Chinese who had gone to the front. "Nobody has heard of any instance of cowardice on the part of the Straits Chinese," he said.

The foreigners who were fighting for China were also very courageous, he declared.

Dr. Hoops told of a raid on Yunnanfu on September 28 by nine Japanese planes which bombed a girls' school, killing a number of children.

The bombers flew down the important streets of the town and killed and injured nearly 2,000 people.

"You will all understand that the sacrifices made by the Chinese in Malaya are for the relief of the suffering of the people outside the war," said Dr. Lim Boon Keng. "They are not for the relief of the Chinese army at all. We have sent nothing to the Chinese Government and it does not want anything from Chinese abroad."

"ALGIERS" IS OUTSTANDING FILM PLAY

"Algiers," now at the King's Theatre, is the latest of a series of extraordinary films produced by Walter Wanger, whose monumental "Blockade" still lingers in the memory as an eloquent denunciation of war and its blank-futility.

"Algiers" is a strange but moving film, just as the Casbah, the native quarter, the atmosphere of which it has convincingly caught, is exotic and often puzzling.

Charles Boyer, as Pepe le Moko, Jew thief, who plunges into the Casbah to escape apprehension but longs for the sights and sounds and pleasures of Paris, has a part which, considered in all its aspects, is not as easy to portray as may be imagined, and performing it with understanding. But it is to Joseph Calleja, as Inspector Blumane, that the real acting honours go. His is as suave and as perfect a performance as any that has been seen for a long time.

Sigrid Gurie and Hedy Lamarr, as the Casbah girl and the Parisienne respectively, give splendour to the story and lend colour to the production by their contrasting beauty.—A.C.G.

"YOU'RE ONLY YOUNG ONCE"

Dramatic interludes in the life of a typical American family are highlighted in "You're Only Young Once," which comes to the Majestic Theatre to-day.

The new comedy offers Hollywood's conception of an ideal family group. Lewis Stone is the father, understanding and tolerant. Cecilia Parker is the daughter, just out of college and engaged to a mining engineer. Mickey Rooney is the son, playing his first grown-up role. Others in the cast are Fay Holden as the mother, Frank Craven, Ann Rutherford, Eleanor Lynn, Ted Fetherston, Sara Haden, Charles Judels and Selmer Jackson.

MYSTERY POISONING OF SCIENTISTS

Scotland Yard officials were recently still investigating the mysterious poisoning by atropine of seven young scientists at Chelsea Polytechnic. Investigations suggested that the poisoning was the result of an accident.

The men suddenly became ill after drinking tea. Their condition was immediately reported to the principal, Dr. Harlow, who diagnosed atropine poisoning, and emetics were given. The young men recovered sufficiently to be back at their duties recently.

Examination of the cups from which the tea was drunk, and the kettle in which the water was boiled, showed a considerable quantity of atropine.

How the drug, one-sixtieth of which is the maximum medicinal dose, came to be in the kettle is still a mystery.

A possible explanation is that some person may have been experimenting with atropine and that some of the drug adhered to a finger and contaminated the water used for making tea.

Atropine is derived from belladonna. It is extensively used in ophthalmic practice to dilate the pupil of the eye, and has manifold uses in medicine, including the relief of colic, asthma and whooping cough.

Mr. David Lambert Lack, representing the London Zoological Society and the Royal Society, with Mr. Hugh Thompson, of London, sailed to join a scientific expedition to the Galapagos Islands to study bird life.

SIR MALCOLM'S WIFE REPLIES TO 'DEBT' NOTICE

Sir Malcolm Campbell, in a notice recently, withdrew "all and every authority" from his wife, Lady (Dorothy Evelyn) Campbell, to pledge his credit, and said he would not be responsible for her debts.

Mr. L. A. Hart, solicitor for Lady Campbell, issued this statement:—"Lady Campbell wishes it to be known that she has not incurred, and has never had any intention of incurring, liabilities which justify the issue of such a notice."

STAINS

Children's clothes usually acquire some stains during the party season. These should be removed before the garments are washed. Grease stains in general can be removed easily by the use of carbon tetrachloride, which is safer than petrol and just as effective.

Such stains as chocolate, cocoa cream, and milk should be treated with cold water whenever possible before the garments are boiled or washed in hot water.

Sprinkle the stain thickly with borax, then just cover with cold water and leave to soak. Squeeze out, and wash in the usual way. This treatment will not do for wool.

Instead, just soak the part for a few minutes in warm water containing borax. Glycerine is an economical and effective stain remover, especially for fruit juice, jelly, and similar stains, which are often very persistent.

Rub the glycerine into the stain soaking well, and leave for an hour or so. Rinse in tepid water, and wash in the usual way.

Sometimes another application of glycerine is necessary, but as a rule stain will disappear after the first treatment.

Woman Claims Millions Napoleon Took From Bank

Claimants to the fabulous fortune left by Jean Thierry, an innkeeper at Brescia, Italy, who died in 1636, leaving estate estimated to-day to be worth £300,000,000, have been informed by the French Government that a settlement for £160,000 will be made if they produce a family tree proving their right to the money.

SAUSAGE MERCHANT RECALLED

Mrs. Peter Fleming, otherwise Miss Celia Johnson, the actress, is shortly to have a baby.

Not long ago Mrs. Fleming was in China with her husband, Mr. Fleming, received news that Hitler had recalled the German advisers to the Chinese army.

Unable to get the news through the Japanese censors, except in code, he remembered Mr. Reginald Winn, who does a life-like impersonation of Hitler making a speech, and wired as follows to Mrs. Fleming in Hongkong.

"Tell Geoffrey (Dawson) Reggie Winn has recalled sausage merchants."

Mrs. Fleming duly interpreted the message, and telegraphed it to "The Times."

Duchess Loses Fashion Title

The Duchess of Windsor is considered to have lost her position as the Queen of Fashion, according to a canvass of Paris fashion houses. She is replaced by Mme. Antenor Patino, daughter-in-law of the South American tin millionaire.

Countess Barbara Haugwitz-Reventlow, from being one of the world's ten best-dressed women, is now ranked as a runner-up. The latest ranking is:

1. Mme. Antenor Patino.
2. The Duchess of Windsor.
3. The Duchess of Kent.
4. Baronne Eugene de Rothschild, an American.
5. The Begum Aga Khan.
6. Mrs. Harrison Williams.
7. The Marquise de Paris.
8. Mrs. Gilbert Miller.
9. Senora Martinez de Hoz.
10. Mme. Jean Dupuy, an American.

The five runners-up are: Countess Barbara Haugwitz-Reventlow, Mme. Jean Nash Dubonnet, Mrs. Doris Duke Cromwell, Lady Elsie de Wolfe Mendel and Mme. Georges Bonnet, wife of the French Foreign Minister.

Round About

Several guests gathered at a private residence for dinner and an evening of general entertainment. The hostess, having just moved in to her new home, received several gifts of small value from her friends, one young lady expressing her thoughts and feelings by a large bouquet of flowers. Thanks expressed, dinner progressed satisfactorily. In fact, the whole evening was perfection. Everyone spent pleasant hours and departed in gay spirits.

When morning came, the hostess began to review the gifts received from her guests of the previous evening when her eyes beheld the bouquet gracing the centre of a small table in her living room. But what type of vase were they in and where did it come from were her flashing thoughts?

Her gold-fish! Gone but not forgotten. A large, new, thin glass bowl, formerly a gold-fish bowl, gave mute evidence.

FIRST HIGHLAND DRESS HAD NO KILT

Among portraits depicting tartan kilts of nearly 300 years ago, which are to be displayed at the Exhibition of Scottish Art at Burlington House this month, is the earliest Highland costume of all—that shown in "Highland Chief," by Michael Wright (1825-1700).

The brown and white tartan is not kilted, but caught with a belt. It is a picturesque costume with elaborately embroidered jacket, full sleeves, and a feathered hat.

According to a sixteenth century authority garments of those days were for the most part brown—the better to conceal the wearers among the heather.

PLAID LEAVES KILT

The "early kilt" was not a separate garment as it is to-day, but a long length of cloth twisted around the figure and held in place by a belt; it was known as a belted plaid.

In the eighteenth century a separate kilt was invented by an Army tailor, and has continued until the present day. The plaid then became a separate kind of shawl worn over the shoulder whereas before it was just a continuation of the kilt.

One picture, by Raeburn, of Dr. Spens, which belongs to the King's Bodyguard for Scotland the Royal Archers, shows him in uniform at the latter part of the eighteenth century. There is also a costume of a Royal archer about 100 years earlier showing a tartan coat.

An exhibit which should attract modern designers of ballroom gowns will be an embroidered dress worn at Bonnie Prince Charlie's Ball at Holyrood in 1745 by Margaret Oliphant, wife of Patrick Graham, of Inchbrakie. It is of cream silk, with garlands of flowers in coloured silks.

STYLE CHANGE

New Year Coiffures

If you decide on a change of hairdressing in the New Year there are several rules to be followed so that the chosen coiffure may be attractive, and becoming to your particular type of beauty.

For example, a full face demands that the hair be brushed away from the ears with a wide, high arrangement of waves. If you have regular features or rather classical lines, an upswipe style should be successful, and if you are youthful enough for casual hairdressing, you can add curls and putts in the windswept manner as well.

POINTS FOR POINTED

A pointed face is offset by hair dressed low over the ears; and remember that a long chin looks shorter when curls begin at the temples and come well down towards the jaw-bone. A high, pointed forehead must be broken by curls, or, if liked, the effect of a fringe.

It is unwise to break the lines of a high, square brow, for it is only a matter of arranging the hair to the correct height above it, and seeing that the pieces at the temples are treated in the right way, to get the effect perfect from all angles.

GIRL IN SPECTACLES

Those who are obliged to wear glasses should dress the hair with curls on forehead and over the tops of the ears. And the same advice applies to the woman whose nose inclines to be a prominent feature. The new bunchy curled fringes might be suitable, but it is unwise to have the hair cut for this style without first seeing the finished effect with false curls pinned in place. Also it is essential to find out if you can wear the type of hat that leaves the fringe unaffected.

ST. DAVID'S SOCIETY ANNUAL MEETING

President Strongly Urges Membership Increase

THE ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING of Cymdeithas Dewi Sant (St. David's Society) Hongkong, was held in the Supreme Court building yesterday evening. The President, Mr. E. W. Davies, occupied the Chair, and there was a large attendance of members, including Mrs. J. G. Hooper, Mrs. E. D. Edwards, Mrs. K. Cooper, Dr. Rhys C. Jones, the Rev. Vaughan Edwards, Messrs. W. Ancelin Jones, D. Morgan Richards, D. Davies, W. T. Lewis, E. C. Thomas, E. Lewis, Mrs. W. T. Lewis (Hon. Secretary and Treasurer).

Mr. E. W. Davies was unanimously re-elected President for the ensuing year and Mr. E. Lloyd Jones was unanimously elected Vice-President.

The following Committee was appointed for 1939—Mrs. J. G. Hooper, Mrs. K. Cooper, Messrs. W. A. Jones, D. F. Davies, D. Davies, E. R. Price and E. C. Thomas.

It was decided to hold the annual dinner on St. David's day, March 1, at the Hongkong Hotel.

It was proposed to arrange a cocktail party for members of the Society in the near future, and also a hiking party during Chinese New Year holidays.

The President strongly urged members to make an effort to increase the membership of the Society, as it was felt that there were many residents of Welsh nationality in the Colony who were eligible for membership.

ANNUAL REPORT

The report for the year ended December 31, 1938, is as follows:—There were 41 members at the close of the year including six life members.

In the forenoon on St. David's Day, the President, Mr. E. W. Davies, laid a wreath at the foot of the Cenotaph on behalf of the Society, being accompanied by Mr. David Davies, Mr. D. F. Davies, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Hall.

The annual dinner, which was held at the Hongkong Hotel, was very successful, there being 67 members and their friends present.

A wreath from the President and members of the Society was laid at the Cenotaph on Armistice day by the President, Mr. E. W. Davies, accompanied by Mr. E. Lloyd Jones, Mr. David Davies and Mr. W. Ancelin Jones.

FAREWELL TIFIN

On November 30 a farewell tiffin party was held at the Hongkong Hotel in honour of Mr. and Mrs. H. Hall and Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Jones, when a large gathering took the opportunity of wishing them bon voyage prior to their departure on furlough.

On account of the departure on furlough of Mrs. I. Hall, the Hon. Secretary and Treasurer, a meeting of the Committee was held on November 14, when Mrs. Sarah Lewis was unanimously appointed to serve in her place. The President warmly thanked Mrs. Hall for her invaluable services to the Society during the period she held office.

The Committee desires gratefully to record its appreciation of the invaluable services rendered by the President and the Vice-President, Mr. H. Hall.

Reports of the Society's activities have from time to time been communicated to the Librarian of the National Library of Wales, Aberystwyth, and have been suitably acknowledged.

NO VERY COLD WEATHER

But "One Never Can Tell"

"IT IS NO USE TRYING to forecast the weather a week ahead. One simply cannot do it," said an official of the Royal Observatory when I called on him yesterday with a view to getting what is commonly known as a "weather story."

The official concerned said there were no indications of really cold weather setting in for the next few days but added with a smile that "one never can tell!"

The weather we have had for the past two days was regarded as "normal weather for this time of the year," the maximum recording on Monday being 65.1 degs. F. and the minimum 56.5 degs. F. The mean maximum recording for January 1938 was 58.7 degs. F.

Asked if a recording of 65.1 degs. was not unusually high for January, the official replied that it was quite common to get a reading of over 70 degs. in January, and in this connection mentioned that the highest recorded was 78.8 degs. F. in January 1926.—F. M. A.

MOHAMMEDANISM IN CANTON

Revival Sought By Arab Sheik

An Arab sheik is at present in Canton for the purpose of reviving Mohammedanism in that city, states an International News dispatch from Shamen, which adds that the sheik is disappointed at finding that most religious people have evacuated the city.

The Japanese military authorities, it is stated, pointed out that there are still many Mohammedan mosques and restaurants in the city, although they are quite empty. The sheik was told that some of the Japanese soldiers are Mohammedans.

ARAB PRINCE LEAVE

Prince El Hussain of the Yemen and his party left Hongkong by Imperial Airways' plane yesterday for London. It has not been established whether the "sheik" referred to by International News is a member of the Prince's party.

ILL-TREATMENT OF CHILD

LI Tsun-ming, 40, unemployed, and Yan Yik-hung, a married woman, residing at No. 40, Eastern Street, third floor, appeared before Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central Court yesterday on charges of employing an unregistered mul-tal, Li Shun-hop.

Additional charges of ill treating the girl and assaulting a child under the age of 16 were also preferred against defendants.

A remand till January 19 was granted on the application of Inspector H. W. Fraser, of the S.C.A., who is in charge of the case.

Bail was fixed at $100 each.

ENGINEER'S BODY RECOVERED

The body of Mr. Charles Christian, chief engineer of the steamer Deslock, who had been missing for over a week, was found floating near the Kowloon Dock yesterday.

It will be recalled that Mr. Christian disappeared from the ship at 3 a.m. on Wednesday. He was still clad in engine-room dungarees. Foul play is not suspected.

MOTOR MISHAP

A Morris Minor car, driven by a Chinese lady, ran off the road at Clear Water Bay Road near Tai Po Tsai, Kowloon, yesterday morning.

While reversing, the vehicle drove off the road down an embankment.

No person was injured and damage to the car was not extensive.

58 YEARS IN BUSINESS HERE

Career Of Mr. Ip Lan-chuen

European and Chinese residents of Hongkong alike will join in extending to Mr. Ip Lan-chuen, general manager of the Kwong Man Lung Fire Cracker Manufacturing Co., Ltd., their congratulations as he enters into the 58th year of his business activity in the Colony.

Seventy-four years of age, this leader of Chinese industry in Hongkong is still in good health and as young as ever in spirit and, as he explained to the "Hongkong Daily Press," he feels as active as ever.

A keen student in world affairs and in commercial and industrial progress, Mr. Ip continues, in spite of his advanced years, to take a keen interest in civic welfare work. This octogenarian was for 18 years secretary of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, which organization benefitted considerably as a result of his wide experience and sagely advice.

In addition to his other duties, Mr. Ip is general manager of the Cheong Wo Chien, an agency having dealings with Peru, and a director of the Chinese National Products Corporation.

HEARING FIXED FOR FRIDAY, 13TH

"You are not superstitious, are you?" smilingly inquired the Magistrate, Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen, at the Kowloon Court yesterday of F/Lt. R. C. S. Allen, of Kai Tak Airport, after he had fixed for the afternoon of January 13, which falls on Friday, the hearing of a summons against him for not being in a proper position to control his car and for driving without due care and caution in Nathan Road on December 14. Defendant denied both charges.

CAMPOR WOOD BOXES

THEFT ALLEGED

Further evidence was heard before Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central Court yesterday when Wong Yat-nam appeared, on remand, on charges of larceny and fraudulent conversion of 20 sets of camphor wood boxes, property of the Central and Company.

Mr. M. A. da Silva appeared for the prosecution, while Mr. J. M. D'Almeida Remedios was for the defence. Mr. H. A. de B. Botelho held a watching brief on behalf of the purchaser, Mr. Ip Hon-ting.

It was alleged by the prosecution that defendant ordered the articles on September 8, for delivery three days after, and agreed upon the cash on delivery basis. When the boxes were ready defendant is alleged to have taken delivery without making immediate payment.

The boxes were placed on board a sampan and rowed away during the absence of the manager of the Central and Company, Mr. Pun Ngai-shun.

Hearing was adjourned till Monday, January 16.

STEAMER SERVICE TO CANTON

Following repeated consultations between the British and Japanese authorities the Hongkong, Macao and Canton Steamboat Company's steamer Kinsan will leave for Canton at 8 a.m. to-day. It will be the first merchant vessel, other than the relief steamer Wuchang, to call at Canton with passengers since the Japanese occupation.

The passengers, however, are limited to Shamen residents.

The steamship is scheduled to return to Hongkong on Thursday morning. No Chinese passengers nor cargoes are allowed on board in

TRAFFIC CASES AT CENTRAL

D. M. Bateman, of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson & Co., Ltd., was summoned before Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central Court yesterday for failing to have a rear light on his car and for overtaking a moving vehicle on the left hand side on December 30.

A caution was registered against him on the first count and on the second, he pleaded not guilty.

Traffic Sergeant F. G. Appleton, who was the complainant, said he was on patrol duty about 7.30 p.m. on the day in question. The defendant was ahead of him when passing Murray Barracks. Near the foot of Garden Road they had to stop to obey the traffic light. When the signal showed green, defendant overtook a taxi on the near side.

In evidence, Bateman said when the green light was on again his car was on the near side of the taxi, overlapping to a slight degree. He was under the impression that the taxi would turn right.

A fine of $10 was imposed.

OTHER CASES

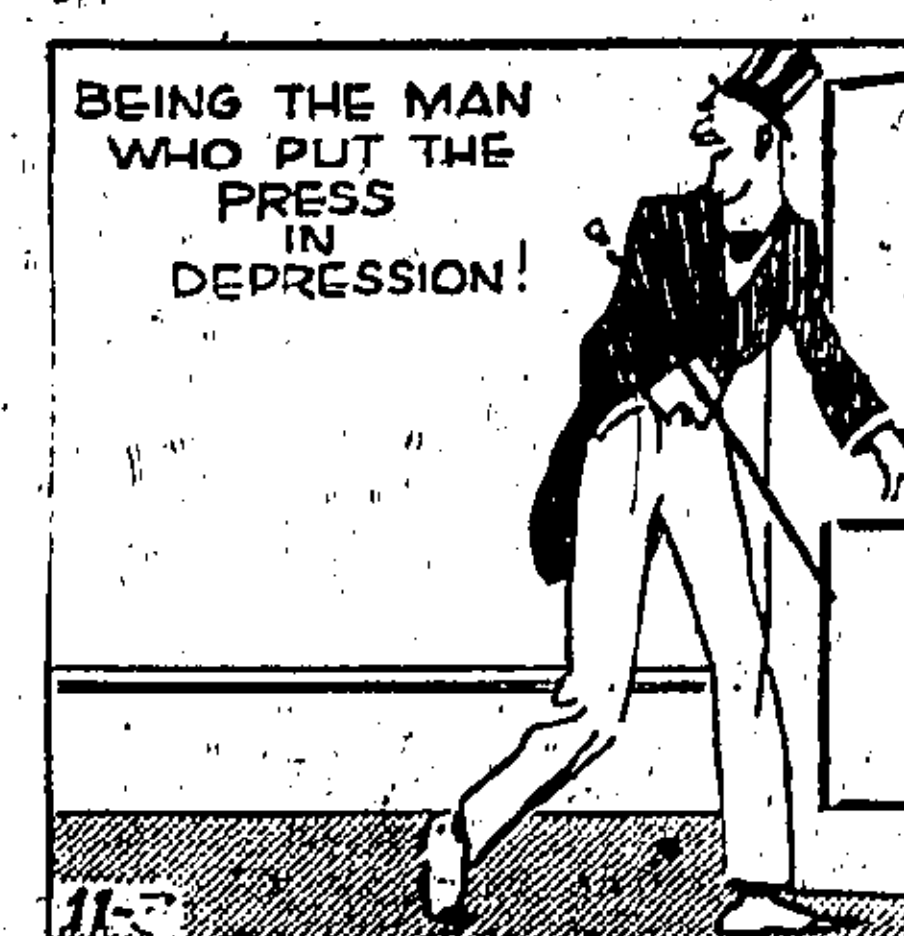

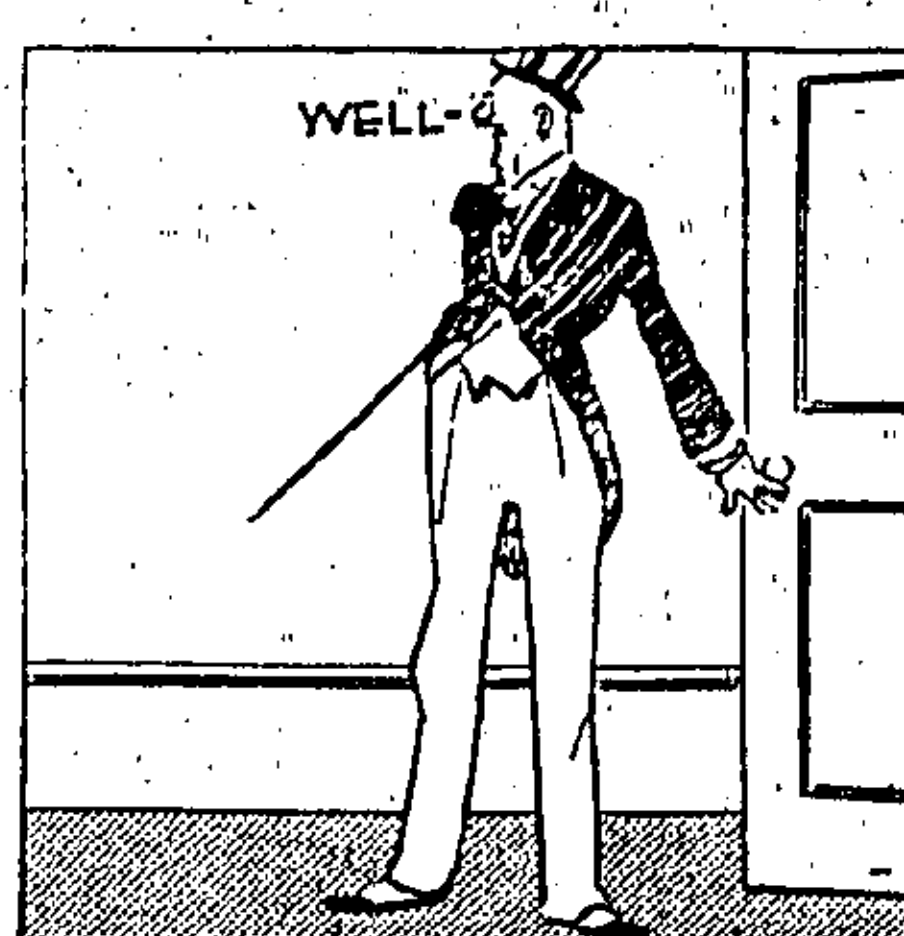

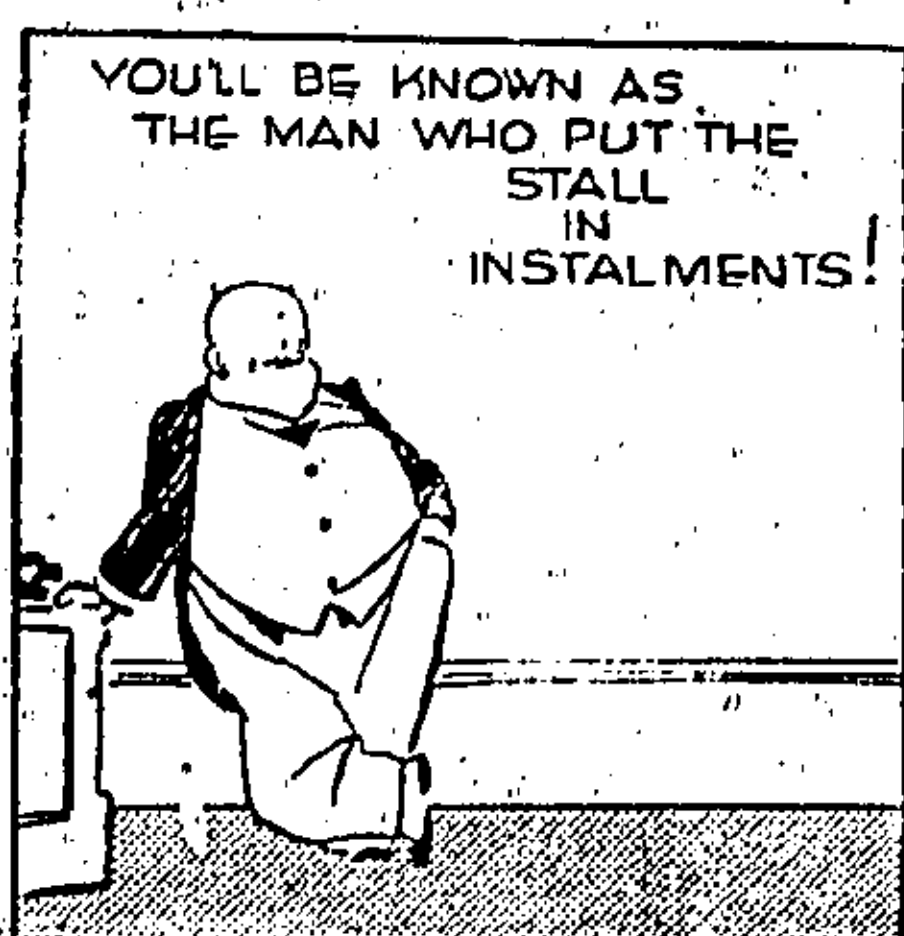

Mrs. G. V. Churchill, residing at No. 6, Alburgh Hall, May Road, was fined $5 for leaving her car unattended in Queen's Road Central near the Hongkong Hotel, on December 23.

Fines totalling $16 were imposed on P. Borten, residing at the Gloucester Hotel, when he pleaded guilty before Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central Court yesterday to two summonses for parking his car in Charter Road Car Park, exceeding the time limit.

According to the understanding reached between the company and the Japanese.

It is hoped that a regular bi-weekly service will be inaugurated soon.

AIR MISSION TO AUSTRALIA

IN KEEPING WITH the policy of re-armament of the British Government, a mission is to be sent to Australia for the purpose of consulting with the Commonwealth Government on the question of establishing and operating aircraft factories. These factories will be of a sufficient productive capacity to meet the needs of the air defence of Australia and New Zealand, as well as to replenish the active aircraft that will be based upon Singapore and Hongkong. In this respect, we in the Colony have an intimate interest in the Mission which is now proceeding to Australia.

THE BRITISH Commonwealth may be far-flung, but the ties of Empire lose nothing by the distance which separates the Dominions and Dependencies from the Mother Empire. And, although the Pacific may be many thousands of miles from England, the destinies and welfare of the population of the British in these parts are close to the hearts of every man, woman and child in the Mother Country.

EVENTS IN CHINA, and particularly in South China, have brought a realisation of possibly grave future developments not only to ourselves and to the people of Australia, but also to the British Commonwealth. And while measures which are taken in keeping with the dictates of wise statesmanship and caution are not directed against any particular Power, it is natural that those measures should be sufficiently adequate to assure confidence that the British Empire is inviolate no matter how small a unit may be.

THERE WAS A TIME when the British Government was accused of being indifferent to events in the Far East, when Japanese expansion in North China was supposed to have been even favoured by reactionary circles in Britain. Even now, correspondence from persons who are reputed to be well informed assert that "there is a danger that British financial reaction may consider making a deal with the Japanese." This seems to be a biased view.

REACTION TO THE FAR EAST facts. And these facts are that although there may be isolated financial and industrial groups which believe that British finance can co-operate with Japan in the re-building of China after a close, favourable to Japan, has been reached, the actions of the British Government disclose a realisation that the war in China is not near its finish, that China is still capable of prolonged resistance, and that, before the war in China is ended, some greater and more serious development may take place in the Pacific and the Far East.

SINGAPORE is by no means an ideal location for a military centre of resistance in view of the

LIKELY BRITISH DEMARCHE TO TOKYO

Measures To Keep Open Door

LONDON, Jan. 10 (T/Ocean).—Regarding the rumours current here of a forthcoming British demarche to Tokyo, it is semi-officially stated that the British Government is at present considering measures which might appropriately be taken to safeguard British interests in China but that no definite decisions have yet been taken.

PARALLEL STEPS

LONDON, Jan. 10 (Reuters).—The problem of the Japanese attitude with respect to the Open Door in China has been the subject of ministerial discussion in London for some time, says Reuters's diplomatic correspondent.

There has also been a full and frank exchange of views between London and Washington.

Observers here note that each have independently arrived at the same conclusions from the same set of facts. Hence, naturally, a certain amount of parallelism might be expected in any course adopted.

Although no specific confirmation can be obtained of stories that China's currency may be supported, it is not denied that maintenance of the currency is of definite interest to the foreign trading community in China, and efforts to undermine it by the introduction of currencies sponsored by puppet administrations, established by the Japanese, are strongly deprecated here.

DR. QUO VISITS THE FOREIGN OFFICE

Dr. Quo Tai-chi, the Chinese Ambassador, visited Viscount Halifax at the Foreign Office yesterday in order to press the urgency of the situation in China, and the possibility of action by the League in view of Viscount Halifax's visit to Geneva on his way back from Rome.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (Reuters).—The Ambassadors of China, France and Germany are in Washington together for conferences with the Administration.

The first two returned unexpectedly from holidays in Florida to confer with President Roosevelt, but they refuse to divulge the reason for this.

All the Ambassadors are now awaiting the return of Mr. Cordell Hull, who landed in New York today from Lima.

CHINESE COUNTER-ATTACKING IN SHANSI

SIAN, Jan. 10 (Central).—A strong Chinese force is vigorously counter-attacking Chihshen, in west Shansi, which fell into Japanese hands recently. Its vanguards, according to a military report, have already recaptured Luchashan, a strategic height about one and a half miles south of Chihshen and were yesterday pounding at the city gates with artillery fire.

Chinese guerrilla bands in south Shansi, in the meantime, continue to damage Japanese communication lines and harass small units.

In the Yustang area, northeast of Yungtsei, a section of the highway has been damaged by the guerrillas.

lack of hinterland in which military supplies can be manufactured. It possesses no industrial centres and, therefore, must depend upon the lines of communications which themselves are already menaced. These lines lie through the Mediterranean and round the Cape and, in military circles, both are considered insecure. In this respect, therefore, Singapore now assumes an additional importance since the source of supplies for the British Empire lying in the Pacific will now probably be transferred to the Antipodes.

THIS IS A TIME of great moment. Great nations confident of their power to achieve by force what they cannot achieve by peaceful methods have released forces to combat which will be difficult to control. The terrible devastation which aircraft can spread has been demonstrated in China and in Spain. But adequate defence against aircraft is considered to be almost impossible.

It is to be sure that Australia, New Zealand, Singapore and other dependencies will be well supplied now that the Home Government is sending out this Mission to the Commonwealth. It is an event which will contribute greatly towards moral rearmament, as well as to material rearmament, for the security of the British Empire.

MOWRER IN CHINA

JAPAN IS INCAPABLE OF OVERTHROWING CHINA

Defective Strategy And Outworn Tactics

That Japan is incapable of overthrowing China, has failed in the attempt to break down her resistance, and confronts a powerful united nation in defeat, is E. A. Mowrer's conviction after a visit to the worn-torn Far East.

Famed for his outspokenness, the author upset the Nazis in 1933 with his book "Germany Puts the Clock Back." He regards Germany, Italy and Japan as the "Three Public Enemies."

In China's ultimate victory, Mowrer firmly believes. His main reasons are (a) The intrepid leadership of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek; (b) the awakening of Chinese womanhood under the auspices of Mme. Chiang; and (c) the Japanese inefficiency, defective strategy and outworn tactics. He adds there is realization of "vast ineptitude of the Japanese General Staff and utter lack of discipline or unity within the Army."

BOLD GUERRILLAS

Bold Chinese guerrilla bands persistently cut the enemy's communications. The invaders dare not quit the railways, main roads and navigable rivers. Mobile guerrilla units come and go by night virtually as they please, ambush Japanese trucks on the highways, derail troop trains, kill numbers in isolated detachments or remote outposts.

As China's big cities fall, Chiang withdrew in good order, thus deliberately attenuating enemy lines of communication. Mowrer thinks the Democratic Powers are at last overcoming their fear of Japan, Germans in the Far East hope for a Chinese victory, and only Italy supports the invaders.

If the British and Americans put an embargo on certain supplies and further boycott on Japanese goods, they could "break Japan within a year." Mowrer's final conclusion: Japan is "a poor nation lodging an 18-foot anaconda's appetite in the body of a five foot blacksnake."

HSU SHIH-YING IN CHUNGKING

CHUNGKING, Jan. 10 (Central).—Mr. Hsu Shih-ying, acting Chairman of the National Relief Commission, arrived in Chungking by plane from Hongkong this afternoon.

The Eurasia plane which brought Mr. Hsu to Chungking, while on its way from Hongkong, was notified of the Japanese air attack on the provisional government seat. The plane did not land until the air alarm was lifted shortly before one o'clock.

Upon landing, Mr. Hsu called on Dr. H. H. Kung, President of the Executive Yuan, and attended the executive meeting of the Yuan.

Mr. Hsu, interviewed by the press, described the general relief work the National Relief Commission had done in Hongkong and expressed thanks for the sympathy and assistance rendered by the Hongkong Government.

JEWISH EMIGRATION FROM GERMANY TO BE DISCUSSED

BERLIN, Jan. 10 (Reuters).—Mr. George Rublee, the American director of the Inter-Governmental Committee on Refugees, which was set up in London following the Evian Conference in July, arrived here this morning accompanied by two other members of the Committee.

"We have come to continue the conversations we had with Dr. Schacht in London," stated Mr. Rublee. "It is hoped that the talks will facilitate Jewish emigration from Germany with the help of the Reich Government."

TRINIDAD ANXIETY

LONDON, Jan. 10 (Reuters).—The growing influx of Jewish emigrants into Trinidad is causing anxiety to the local authorities. Five hundred Jews entered Trinidad during the past six months and more are expected.

A meeting of the Executive Council was called to discuss the question.

NEW JAPANESE WAR LOANS

SHANGHAI, Jan. 10 (International).—The "Journal de Shanghai," local French paper, stated that the Japanese Government floated new bonds on January 7 to the value of Yen 400,000,000 for war purpose.

The Japanese Government intends to float, within this year, loans amounting to Yen 1,620,000,000, according to the same paper.

NEW INDIAN FEDERAL CONSTITUTION

CALCUTTA, Jan. 10 (T/Ocean).—Political circles in close touch with the Congress Party are inclined to attach greatest importance to the draft of the new Indian Federal Constitution just finished by Gandhi.

It is expected that the contents of the new Constitution draft will be published to-morrow when the Executive Committee of the Congress Party meets in Bardoli.

Unless Gandhi's draft takes a due regard to the question of the native States it is more than doubtful whether the rulers of these States will allow enforcing of the new Constitution plan.

FRANCO-YUGOSLAV TRADE TREATY

BELGRADE, Jan. 10 (T/Ocean).—The Yugoslav economic delegation leaving here to-day for Paris will, according to well-informed Belgrade circles, have as its main object to convince France of the necessity to put into practice the conditions of the Franco-Yugoslav trade treaty signed at the end of 1937.

This treaty provides 20 per cent. surplus exports for Yugoslavia in her trade with France while in 1938 the French exports to Yugoslavia were actually higher than the Yugoslav exports to France.

MONTAGU NORMAN "STEEL KING"

LONDON, Jan. 10 (T/Ocean).—Mr. Montagu Norman, for many years the Governor of the Bank of England, yesterday became the "British Steel King," taking over control of the well-known British steel firm of John Summers and Sons.

In July last the Bank of England already secured a controlling interest on the British steel industry by buying up the share majority of the Richard Thomas Company.

MARITIME TRAFFIC CONGESTION

SHANGHAI, Jan. 10 (T/Ocean).—According to Japanese circles here, plans for a semi-official steamship company to operate a merchant fleet between Japan and Shanghai are now being drawn up by the Japanese Ministry of Communications. Japan's leading shipping firms, Nippon Yusen Kaisha and Osaka Shosen Kaisha, as well as the Ministry of Marine, are co-operating in the establishment of the plan. The main task of the company will be to ease the maritime traffic congestion now prevailing on the route from Japan to Central China.

NO DECISION

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 10 (T/Ocean).—No decision was made by noon to-day on the reply of the Nederlandsche Bank to the British request for co-operation in measures for protecting the English pound against bear speculations. Dutch financial experts believe that the dilatory attitude of the Dutch Bank aims at getting positive British assurances as to the level to which the pound is definitely to be kept in order to find a basis for her own currency policy.

3 EAST HONAN TOWNS FALL

LOYANG, Jan. 10 (Central).—Rihshan, Luyi and Chenliu in east Honan are reported to have again fallen into Japanese hands. The Chinese forces have withdrawn to the suburbs. The Japanese troops who entered Chenliu are alleged to have mowed down hundreds of Chinese civilians with machine-gun fire.

What The Fall Of Hankow Means

BY SIR ANTHONY JENKINSON

The fall of Hankow does not mean the defeat of China. Nor does it mean the end of fighting.

The long duration of the war, and particularly the delay in the capture of Hankow, has cost Japan dearly in men and money.

Japan's financial year begins on April. By that time, if the war continues, she will have to budget for such a tremendous expenditure on arms that her economic structure may collapse.

GUERRILLA WARFARE

Moreover, the longer the war lasts, the more successfully will China be able to develop her new industries and new armies in the interior provinces and her guerrilla warfare in the occupied areas behind the Japanese lines.

A few months ago there was little doubt that the Japanese could have cleaned up the guerrilla units, had they tried to do so in earnest. But to-day the guerrillas and the masses upon whom they depend are organised scientifically—principally in the northwest and northeast by the Eighth Route Army.

While the Japanese have been advancing on Hankow and Canton, the guerrillas have been feverishly arming and politically educating the masses in the occupied areas.

Only an immediate peace will enable the Japanese to deal with the guerrillas before it gets too late. Japan, then, will come forward with peace terms. These, in essence, will be:

"We will withdraw our troops from your country and respect your territorial integrity—as we always said we would—on condition that your Government will co-operate economically with us, instead of with the Western Powers, and will help us to exterminate Communism in China."

PUPPET GOVERNMENTS

This, in practice, will mean that the mineral and agricultural wealth and markets of China will be put at the disposal of Japan, in order to satisfy her expanding imperialism, and that the Chinese "puppet" Government will assist the Japanese in destroying the guerrillas and removing all Soviet influence.

Certain groups of Chinese, headed by Wang Ching-wei, will probably co-operate with Japan on these lines.

With the fall of Hankow, the Japanese will co-ordinate their various puppet governments, centralising them in Peiping. This Peiping Government, headed, perhaps, by Wang Ching-wei, will control the area lying east of the Peiping-Hankow-Canton line. The effectiveness of its control will depend on its ability to destroy the guerrillas in that area.

THEY WILL FIGHT ON

West of that line the Chinese armies will reorganise and fight on. In the northwest the basis of resistance will be provided by the Eighth Route Army; in the south-west by the Kwangtung and Kwangsi troops, led by Generals Li Chung-jen and Pai Chung-hsi.

The evacuation of Canton and Hankow has preserved the Chinese armies—particularly the Kwangtung and Kwangsi armies, which were bearing the brunt of the Yangtze Valley fighting. They live to fight another day.

The loss of Hankow is a serious blow to the Chinese because it cuts them off from important sources of revenue and severs the line—the Peiping-Hankow-Canton railway—which linked the northwest with the southwest. Geographically China is now a divided country.

But her spirit remains intact. Henceforth she will fight the war on a more democratic basis; there will be closer co-operation between her soldiers and the mass of her people.

CUT OFF

China is now cut off from Hongkong, the main gateway for her war supplies. In future she must get them through the Indo-China, Burma and Russia-Lanchow routes—all of them inadequate. But she still has a year's war supplies in reserve, and in the meantime her own arsenals and factories are developing in the interior.

For China, the loss of Hankow does not mean the end of the war. It means the prolongation of the war for at least five years—even though there may be nominal peace during that time.

For Britain, the loss of Hankow means the beginning of Japan's attempt to consolidate her economic position in China.

Because of her lack of raw materials Japan is still a second-class military and naval power. But if she is left free to exploit the wealth of China, she will rapidly become a first-class Power, able to carry out the most ambitious of her dreams.

What are these dreams? In the words of her own spokesmen—to conquer Asia and dominate the world. Japan will conquer Asia by feeding upon the wealth of China and securing from the Chinese "puppet" Government co-operation in a policy of "Asia for the Asiatics."

HER PROGRAMME

Japan's programme includes the conquest of Indo-China, the Malay States, Siam (already strongly under Japanese influence), Burma, India, the Philippines, Dutch East Indies, New Zealand and Australia. Only after carrying out this programme will Japan challenge the Soviet Union.

A present Japan is too weak to carry out such a programme.

Within the next few weeks Britain will have to choose between the unpleasant alternatives of coming to terms with the Japanese—on the three-fold basis of recognising the "puppet" Government in Peiping (as Germany and Italy will do), granting Japan financial assistance, and opening British colonial markets to Japanese goods—or helping China, and in consequence seeing our trade interests in the Yangtze Valley and South China swept away.

In the long run, Britain is faced with the alternatives of helping China to regain her national independence or standing by and watching Japan slowly but surely fulfil her dream of Asiatic conquest.—Daily Sketch.

Far-Reaching Changes In German Newspaper World

BERLIN, Jan. 10 (Transocean).—In the Berlin newspaper world far-reaching changes will be made on February 1. The "Berliner Tageblatt" will cease publication on that date. The "Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung" will amalgamate with the "Deutscher Verlag" (formerly "Ullstein") which already publishes a number of popular newspapers with a very large circulation.

The "Berliner Boersen Zeitung"—the most influential financial newspaper of the Reich capital—will also pass into another ownership. From February 1, the "Voelkischer Beobachter," which used to be the leading organ of the National Socialist Party, will become the leading organ of Berlin and simultaneously of all Germany.

The "Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung" chief editor will still be Dr. Silex, while the chief editor of the "Berliner Tageblatt," Dr. Muendler, will become political chief of all newspapers published by the "Deutscher Verlag," which will be enlarged in the foreign service, its editorial staff being reinforced by that of the "Berliner Tageblatt."

ECONOMIC ORGAN

The "Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung" will then be the leading non-party foreign political and economic organ of Germany. The "Berliner Boersen Zeitung" will have as a special characteristic its close association with the economic life of Germany. Whereas the "Voelkischer Beobachter," as official Party organ, has a circulation of over 600,000, the "Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung" has a circulation of only 58,000.

The "Berliner Tageblatt," formerly a Democratic newspaper and whose readers are strongly Jewish has declined in circulation to about 54,000. This low circulation alone showed that the "Berliner Tageblatt" was no longer capable of a continued existence.

Since the Reichs Government does not desire any subventioned newspapers, the "Berliner Tageblatt" will now disappear as did the "Germania," the organ of the former Catholic Centre Party on January 1, 1939.

REAL SITUATION IN PALESTINE IS DESCRIBED

DETAILS OF MILITARY MEASURES TAKEN

Baseless Allegations Of British Troops' Atrocities

LONDON, Jan. 10 (B. W. S.)—IN A STATEMENT ISSUED LAST NIGHT THE WAR OFFICE says it considers that in view of the absolutely baseless allegations being broadcast by persons and organisations unfriendly to Britain of atrocities by British troops in Palestine, it is desirable to make public a description of the real situation in that country together with details of actual measures being taken to deal with it.

Although there is at the present time an armed rebellion in progress in Palestine, the War Office strongly emphasises that there is no organised rebel army in the accepted sense against which troops can act to the exclusion of the remaining peaceful citizens.

The total number of permanent active rebels in the whole country does not exceed 1,000 to 1,500 men, split up in bodies under the command of various leaders. These men are all under arms, often operate in uniform and form the permanent nucleus of the gangs.

PRESS GANGS

The methods by which such reinforcements are obtained vary. In parts of the country where rebel sympathies are strong and organisation is best, definite village detachments with leaders and arms are in existence. Elsewhere, villagers are pressed into service by permanent gangs for a fixed period and are provided with arms.

Practically every village in the country has at one time or other harboured and supported rebels and assisted in concealing their identity from the Government forces. While in many cases this was done from sympathy, in the remainder the same result has been achieved by terrorism.

There is no central command or organisation of rebel bands. The general policy is more or less directed by the Mufti and the Higher Arab Committee, but within Palestine the fighting leaders are practically independent in their own areas.

PRINCIPAL CHIEFS

The principal leaders are Abdul Rahim el Haj Mahomed, titular commander-in-chief who operates in Samaria, and Aref Razik, who commands rebel bands numerically almost as great in the same area. These two leaders are on such bad terms that on more than one occasion open hostilities have almost broken out between them.

Abdul Rahim is a man of good family and some education, and is a more honest and genuine patriot than the majority of the rebels. He maintains an attitude of considerable independence to orders from the Mufti, frequently refusing to carry them out when they offend his principles.

Aref Abdul Razik is a man of much lower origin and less education than Abdul Rahim, and is entirely unprincipled. Starting as a very minor leader 12 months ago he achieved his present position by a career of utter ruthlessness and implicit obedience to the Mufti's orders whatever they involve. He consequently enjoys the complete confidence of the rebel leaders outside.

Thus, in addition to there being no standing armed rebel force against which troops can act, there is no central organisation whose destruction would cause the rebellion to collapse.

There are, moreover, definite signs that as the grip of the rebels on the countryside is weakened by military action the situation will be further complicated by the emergence of Arab anti-rebel gangs who wish to take revenge on those who have supported the rebel terror. One such gang is already active near Jenin.

"BUMPING OFF"

In urban areas there are two principal rebel elements—the more educated effendi class who are engaged in organising supplies, finances and general maintenance and administration of the gangs, running rebel courts and similar activities—and the lower class terrorist thugs who by assassination, abduction and intimidation of all sorts maintain a grip of terror on the town population as effective as that of the armed gangs on the villages.

Although the effendis have in the main supplied the administrative capacity they have not gained any real control of the fighting leaders, and in fact they continue to be terrorised by fear of being "bumped off."

They may give advice but they cannot give orders, which come direct to the gangs from the Mufti and his associates.

In Jaffa, Abdul Rahim Aref Razik and the local leader, Hassam Salameh, all have their own agents working for them and extorting money from the town, with the result that quarrels over division of spoil and allotment of fleeing are continuous.

MILITARY MEASURES

Having thus described the circumstances in which the action of the armed forces to suppress the rebellion has had to be taken, the War Office statement explains the character of military measures adopted under such headings as searches, demolitions and collective punishments.

Regarding demolitions it says that much use is being made of propaganda of the demolitions of houses by troops, and the impression is being given that wholesale demolition of houses of innocent Arabs is being carried out, and adds emphatically that this is not the case.

In the great majority of instances individual selected houses only are demolished for the following reasons: When they are the property of a known active rebel leader who is absent from his village with gangs, or houses from which fire or other resistance has been directed, or houses in which arms, ammunition and equipment has been concealed or which are proved to have been used for rebel purposes as court houses, billets etc.

PRESS SATISFIED

LONDON, Jan. 10 (T/Ocean)—The statement made by the War Office on the reasons for the measures taken by the British troops in Palestine is unreservedly approved by the entire English press to-day.

The "Daily Mail" emphasises that the British forces in Palestine are not fighting a normal enemy but were up against an organised "gangster system."

MURDER TRIAL

JERUSALEM, Jan. 10 (Reuters)—Summing up for the prosecution, Crown Counsel submitted that premeditated murder had been proved against all four British police constables who are standing trial on a charge of murder of an Arab prisoner.

The Crown contends alternatively that if the accused' testimony that they shot the prisoner while escaping were believed, Police Constable Mansell used undue violence for which he is guilty of murder.

The prosecution submitted that both P. C. Crossley and his brother were guilty of attempted manslaughter and P. C. Wood was guilty of premeditated murder because he fired the fatal shot.

2,100 MILES BY CAR IN 13 DAYS

From Chungking To Burma Frontier

LONDON, Jan. 10 (Reuters)—The United States Ambassador to China, Mr. Nelson T. Johnson, drove over the new road from Chungking to the Burma frontier en route to Europe, says the "Times." He was accompanied by the military attaché, Major MacLush, and a Chinese mechanic.

The party left Chungking on December 12 and arrived at Rangoon on December 29 thus covering 2,100 miles in 13 days without a single serious delay, and without a puncture. It was the first private car to traverse the road.

Mr. Johnson, when interviewed, pointed out that the entire road was surveyed and built by native labour without a single piece of road building equipment.

The Cabinet formulated a memorandum to be submitted to the British Ministers to-night at the Quai d'Orsay outlining the reasons why France declines British mediation concerning the Italian claims in the Mediterranean and the Red Sea.

NO MEDIATION

PARIS, Jan. 10 (Reuters)—French authorities reiterate that there is no question of British mediation in the Franco-Italian dispute though the Rome newspaper "Tribuna" still talks of the possibility of Mr. Chamberlain acting as mediator.

ROME PREPARATIONS

GENOA, Jan. 10 (T/Ocean)—The Central railway station is being prepared for the official reception of the Prime Minister, Mr. Chamberlain, and Lord Halifax, due here to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

A special Italian Government delegation to meet the British guests at the Genoa station will arrive here to-night. The train will stop at the Genoa station for 10 minutes before leaving for Rome where it is due to-morrow afternoon at 4.30 p.m.

CZECH BORDER INCIDENT

Polish Consulate Stormed

WARSAW, Jan. 10 (T/Ocean)—The latest incident on the Czechoslovak frontier occurred yesterday when, according to an official Polish report, a group of demonstrators from the Carpatho-Ukrainian military organisation "Sicz" stormed the Polish consulate building in Sewlusz breaking most of the windows.

The Polish Charge d'Affaires submitted a formal protest in Prague and has demanded satisfaction from both the Czechoslovak and Ukrainian Governments.

VOLOSHIN REGRETS

CHIST, Jan. 10 (T/Ocean)—According to the Ukrainian version of the incident in Sewlusz yesterday, a small group of boys and young men demonstrated before the Polish consulate while a crowd was assembled before the town hall and when the group was finally dispersed most of the windows in the consulate had been broken.

The head of the Carpatho-Ukrainian Government, M. Voloshin, expressed his regrets to the Polish Vice-Consul over the incident and ordered a thorough investigation, as well as the punishment of the culprits.

CZECHS BLAMES HUNGARY

PRAGUE, Jan. 10 (T/Ocean)—The Czechoslovak Minister in Budapest to-day handed to the Hungarian Government a lengthy memorandum giving details of the Munkacevo frontier incident from the Czechoslovak viewpoint asserting that the Hungarian Government is to be held responsible for the occurrence.

MUNKACEVO NEUTRAL ZONE PLAN

PRAGUE, Jan. 10 (Reuters)—Czechoslovakia and Hungary have agreed to settle last week's border incident by creating a neutral zone in the Munkacevo sector.

CIVIL DEFENCE MEASURES

LONDON, Jan. 10 (Reuters)—Sir John Anderson, Lord Privy Seal and Minister for Civil Defence, to-day defended the Government's measures and stated that provisions for fire fighting units to be completed in 1941 has been speeded up and will be completed by the end of the year.

He added that recruits for civil defence are almost up to requirements and there is only a small gap. He is going on with recruiting in order to have a reserve force. Sir John said he has not ruled out deep bomb proof shelters and the question would be considered. He concluded: "We are taking necessary precautions in view of the risk of war in the near future but that does not mean that we expect war."

Koreans And Formosans Fighting For China

CHUNGKING, JANUARY 10 (CENTRAL).—HUNDREDS OF KOREAN AND FORMOSAN volunteers are fighting side by side with the Chinese troops on various fronts.

Korean volunteers announced their organisation on October 10, 1938, in Hankow. They are temporarily confined to political work. They mainly prepare propaganda material in the Japanese language. When night falls, they creep across no-man's land to distribute handbills specially designed to arouse anti-war feelings among the Japanese soldiers. At the Chinese headquarters they serve as interpreters whenever Japanese captives are brought in for examination.

South China, for this would open a fertile field to sow their revolutionary seeds. Formosan volunteers also serve as political workers and work in the army medical service corps. Some of them have sneaked back to Formosa to spread anti-Japanese propaganda. They call on their compatriots not to pay taxes, to refuse to be Japanese spies, oppose military service, destroy Japanese establishments of production and form corps of armed volunteers to assist China in the war.

Many Formosans have given liberally to China's war chest. One Formosan in Fukien alone donated $8,000.

Recently they picked their ears when they heard that the Japanese government intends to migrate 700,000 Koreans into North China and 400,000 into

JAPANESE PLANES RAID CHUNGKING

CHUNGKING, Jan. 10 (Central)—Eleven Japanese planes, taking off from their base at Hupeh, conducted an air attack on Chungking at 11 o'clock this morning, dropping a number of missiles on the outskirts of the city and causing damage which has not been ascertained.

As soon as it was learned that a Japanese squadron was heading westward from Hupeh to attack Chungking, an alarm was sounded at 10.40 o'clock. The all clear was given at 12.30 p.m.

At the same time that Chungking was raided, eight other Japanese planes attacked Luhsien, 100 miles above Chungking on the Yangtze, inflicting negligible damage to the place. They subsequently joined the planes at Chungking and returned to their base in Hupeh.

COSTER-MUSICA ATTEMPTED ARMS DEAL

New York, Jan. 10 (Reuters)—An attempted deal in arms with "China or another foreign power," by Philip Musica, alias Donald Coster the ex-convict head of the chemical firm of McKesson, Robins, is reported by the authorities.

A preliminary report from the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which is conducting the investigation into the affairs of McKesson, Robins, disclosed that Coster used the alias of "Mueller" in trying to sell two million rifles and some two billion cartridges from the Government's surplus stores to China or another foreign power.

The fies were Lee Enfields owned by the United States Government. Attempts to negotiate the deal, however, according to the report, collapsed when the Government placed the ammunition and rifles in reserve.

Finance and Commerce

Some Effects Of The Anglo-American Pact On Textile Industry

It was very heartening that the first figures regarding employment in the industries of Britain to be published after the signing of the Anglo-American pact should have shown an improvement in the number of persons at work in the textile industries, writes a London Correspondent. It was all the more pleasing to hear that this improvement in the number of textile workers employed in November should have been noticeable in both the cotton and woollen ends of the industry, and it is hoped that when the effect of the Pact begins to be apparent the number of workers will be still further increased.

British-made woollen piece goods have for long been held in high favour in the United States, and the concessions granted in this department should prove of the greatest value in encouraging the sale of the heavier grades of cloth, including the characteristic tweeds. Hosiery, too, including all types of knitwear, should benefit very materially from the reductions and lead to a much-needed fillip in this trade, which is able to offer really remarkable values in all its lines.

That is accompanied, too, by a fine taste and variety in the designs that are being offered, and the improvement in the actions of the knitting machines has enabled some most interesting and attractive patterns to be worked out in the material.

COTTON CONCESSIONS
The cotton concessions, besides being substantial, cover a wide variety of goods, including belting, which is in good demand because of its durability as well as its high efficiency from the point of view of power transmission.

In the British Industries Fair each year has seen a wonderful array of cotton cloths with a special appeal to overseas buyers because of the fineness of the texture and the brightness and permanency of the colouring, whether the dyeing has been done in the yarn or piece or the designs printed on it.

Linen is another of the famous British textiles that are receiving concessions under the pact, and it should therefore be in a position to make still further progress in U.S. markets, where the merits of the material are well recognised; and it will be still more eagerly bought when the price is reduced.

JUTE FABRICS

The trade in the past has been substantial, showing that, in spite of all the difficulties, there have been many people who would insist upon having Irish linen, knowing what great service it would render them.

Dundee has been watching the progress of the negotiations with considerable anxiety, and the reductions on jute fabrics are such that users of these materials for padding or interlining should find it to their advantage to buy from Britain more freely than they have been able to do in the past.

Going back to the question of cotton goods, it is likely that the reduction on lace window curtains, small though it may be, will have a favourable effect on the trade between Nottingham and the U.S.

This is all to the good, and it gives rise to one thing which all buyers should keep very much in mind.

It is to make themselves familiar with the trade marks and brand names of the goods from the reputable mills and warehouses of the Home Country. Those names have been thought out very carefully; many of them contain a hint of the name of the makers or the nature of the product, and in that way they are easy to recall.

MIXED YARNS

The great point of their use is that in these days of mixed yarns, when it is not easy to identify cloths as belonging to any particular category, the use of a definite designation obviates any possibility of error.

Besides which there is the fact that the extensive advertising and publicity carried out by the makers

BRITONS LEAD A GOLD RUSH

Britain leads easily in the search for gold and diamonds in the Tanganyika Territories, and this may lead to big discoveries, announces the bulletin of the Imperial Institute.

The bulletin states that in 1937 there were 39 mining and prospecting companies, and 12 had their registered offices in Tanganyika.

In addition, 884 prospecting rights were issued to individuals. Nationalities of the holders included 528 British, 138 German, 85 Greek, 15 Italian, and 15 French.

During the year gold worth £528,338 and diamonds worth £5,971 were produced.

Within the past three months the Tanganyika Government have invited companies to prospect for coal.

CEYLON POWER PROJECT

Mr. G. B. Gifford, Hull, who was responsible for the construction of the Shing Mun Dam, recently arrived in Ceylon in his capacity of Director and Consulting Engineer to Marsman Hongkong China, Ltd. In order to prepare a tender for a large hydro-electric scheme.

This undertaking consists of a large dam, double power pipe line, power-house and machinery, and transmission lines to Colombo, a distance of 52 miles.

The whole work is expected to run over £1,000,000 and will take about four years to complete.

have caused these names to be recognised throughout the trade, from the mill to the retail customer.

It simplifies the making out of indents by curtailing the amount of writing that is necessary, and that is always welcome because often the attempts of clerks to abbreviate names or descriptions lead to misunderstandings, some of which may be quite serious in their results.

BASLE, Jan. 10 (Reuter).—The heads of various central banks, including Mr. Montague Norman and Dr. Schacht, held a formal meeting yesterday.

Although only the internal affairs of the Bank of International Settlements were considered, it is understood that international financial action to assist the emigration of German Jews was considered privately.

The Bank's administrative council met later and reviewed the Bank of England's recent measures to check speculation against sterling.

During the discussion it was stated that there had been a considerable repatriation of French capital, and it was agreed that the French financial and monetary situation was satisfactory.

It is also reported that the Chinese Government silver reserves in the United States still total more than $2,200,000,000.

U.S. MONOPOLY INQUIRY

Committee Begins Two-Year Task

After six months of preliminary study a committee of 12 has begun an inquiry, which may last two years, into the whole field of American business.

The inquiry is now generally called the "monopoly investigation." This in itself is significant of the change which has taken place in the past six months, the title formerly preferred being "anti-monopoly investigation."

The committee consists of three Senators and three members of the House of Representatives, with six Government officials belonging to the Departments of Justice, Labour, Commerce and the Treasury, the Securities and Exchange and the Federal Trade Commissions.

The committee members, as a result of their preliminary inquiries, have already realised that the conception of monopoly and "competition" have changed radically since the old "trust-busting" days and the establishment of a trade commission to prevent practices, in restraint of trade.

The big business combines and mergers which the Sherman and Clayton Anti-Trust Laws of 1890 and 1914 sought to control were created chiefly to corner markets, check competition and raise prices. Thus they were a direct burden on the consumer.

SPIRITED RIVALRY

Modern combines and mergers are more frequently intended to bring a cheaper product within the reach of a wider public by economies in management and by more efficient mass production.

In the same way, the conception of competition has changed. It is no longer true to regard it as a race between a dozen or so producers of the same article, but rather as a spirited rivalry between many kinds of products for a bigger share of the individual's expenditure.

Monopoly does not necessarily mean an entire lack of competition. The public is sometimes better served by competition and sometimes by greater standardisation and mass production.

The motor industry provides a good example. Three large mass-production concerns vie with each other in the production of a cheap popular car. It does not follow from this that the public would be better served if six concerns, each of half the size, were competing.

BRITISH FINANCE A VITAL ARM OF DEFENCE

Sir John Simon And City's Stability

Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, addressing members of the Constitutional Club, Northumberland Avenue, London recently, said that it was striking and encouraging to observe how coolly and calmly British financial institutions stood up to the strain of the recent crisis.

"On that topic," he continued, "I am glad to think that I have not got to apologise for any gaps. Plans, of course, had been carefully prepared. They were ready to be put into operation to meet all requirements."

"There were no signs of panic, and in the domestic field our financial structure stood up well to the strain."

"We must never forget that along with the essential elements of the Imperial Forces of the Crown and Air Raid Precautions, British finance is an arm of national defence."

Sir John, urging the need for national unity, said:

"Appeals for greater unity reach us from some unexpected quarters. Unity, indeed, is the keynote of the appeal which is being made by a number of the Government's recent critics. It is a consummation devoutly to be wished."

NATION'S TRIBUTE TO PREMIER

But, in view of the fact that Mr. Chamberlain recently received a greater volume of national commendation for his efforts than any statesman has received in our time, surely the greatest measure of national unity is not likely to be secured by dissociating oneself from his Government.

"I am convinced that we have got in the policy that the Prime Minister is pursuing a policy which ought to bring the country effectively together."

"My message to you is this: Let us work together as comrades and good friends, let us put our loyal service in the hands of the Prime Minister, let us discuss difficulties with good temper, let us believe in the greatness and the faith of Britain, and I believe that the constitution and the country which we all love will by that method best obtain the greatest and most useful measure of support of all classes."

There was in politics, he said, a far greater measure of comprehension and goodwill than there used to be. They had learned to co-operate because they had realised that there was a contribution to be made from more sides than one.

WARDING OFF FIRST BLOW

"I think," he added, "we do the people at large wrong if we do not recognise that it is the people themselves who are ready and anxious to accept a policy which makes for greater national strength."

"Nothing, for example, is more remarkable or more indicative of this than the universal recognition that we must, cost what it may, rearm for purposes of defence."

"That is my answer to those who throw doubts upon the power of this country in present-day difficulties to act as a united whole."

Sir John, referring to rearmament, said:

"The first and most urgent necessity is that we should be adequately provided with defence in every sphere to ward off the possibility of an initial blow. Therefore we must all put the necessity of adequate defence in the very forefront of our calculations as to what the country most urgently needs."

MEDICAL PLANS IN WARTIME

Rapid Expansion Of Services

Speaking recently in a Commons debate on medical services in civil defence, Mr. Bernays, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Health, described the Government's plans for expansion on a great scale in time of war.

There would, he said, be regional organization for casualties, making available first the beds in the best of existing institutions, then providing satellite annexes. Registers of doctors and nurses would all be kept on a unified basis.

The British Medical Association had compiled a register which now included 95 per cent. of the doctors in the country. At the outbreak of war the best place for a doctor would be with his own patients. Thereafter doctors would be directed where the need was greatest.

Discussions were now being held on the adjustment of requirements that might be conflicting. A central register of nurses and nursing auxiliaries was being established.

12-HOUR NOTICE TO HOSPITALS

The Government recognised the need for a greatly expanded potential hospital service. They had already surveyed some 3,000 hospitals with 400,000 beds. It was found that 150,000 beds would have been at once available for air-raid casualties.

Every authority had been informed that every hospital must be ready to clear as many beds as possible on warning from the Government and take steps to increase accommodation.

First-aid posts and ambulance services were now the responsibility of the Ministry of Health, and a circular about them would soon be sent to the local authorities.

Large quantities of equipment were being delivered, more being ordered, and there were large stocks in the country.

Turning to the question of clearing the hospitals, Mr. Bernays stated that during the crisis the hospital evacuation scheme for London could have been put into action at 12 hours' notice.

FULL CO-OPERATION

All this, he argued, showed that a scheme of full co-operation between the medical profession, the hospitals and the Government Departments was already in existence and required only amendment in the light of experience in the crisis.

Sir F. Fremantle had opened the debate with a motion asking for such a scheme to be carried out. One of the greatest difficulties in the crisis, he declared, was uncertainty about the position, equipment and work of the first aid posts. Medical men should have the chief part in making plans.

Sir H. Morris-Jones suggested the evacuation of all cases of sickness from London hospitals as soon as emergency arose. Hospital boards of management were asking for definite instructions about what would be required of them in the future.

SHIPBUILDING ACADEMY FOR CHUNGKING

CHUNGKING, Jan. 10 (Reuter).—The Chinese Government has instructed the Ministries of Education and Communications jointly to make preparations, within three months, for the establishment of a National Chungking Commercial Maritime Academy to train men in navigation and shipbuilding.

PUPPET'S BANK DREAM

The efforts of Mr. Fu Siao-on, Mayor of the "Shanghai Special Municipal Government," to organize a "Shanghai Municipal Bank" have not been crowned with success.

It was originally suggested and agreed with Japanese interests that the bank be capitalized at $10,000,000. The Japanese were to supply $2,500,000 of this amount, but so far have not done so.

COMMERCIAL FLIGHT RECORD

LONDON, Jan. 10 (Reuter).—The Imperial Airways plane, Falcon, broke another commercial record when it flew to Brussels from Croydon, yesterday in 48 minutes, at an average speed of 230 miles per hour.

The air liner carried 11 passengers, a crew of four, and a ton of freight.

The previous record for the same journey was 53 minutes.

MORE JAPANESE OFFICIALS RESIGN

TOKYO, Jan. 10. (Reuter).—
All 12 parliamentary vice-Ministers have tendered their resignations in consequence of the reconstruction of the Cabinet. The resignations have been accepted, and their successors will be appointed next week.

All eight advisers to the Cabinet, including the chairman of the Minseito Party,
Mr. Chuji Manchida, and the President of the South Manchurian Railway, Mr. Yosuke Matsuoka, have likewise resigned, but it is stated that their resignations were not accepted by Baron Hiranuma, and they will therefore remain
in office.

GERMAN GRAIN STORAGE

Many Warehouses
Planned

BERLIN, Jan. 10. (T/Ocean).—
Private firms will play a big part in the great future planning of grain storage facilities in Germany. Plans for the building of a large number of grain warehouses and silos have been made with an eye for future requirements, and the Reich is giving private firms every encouragement to invest in such buildings.

A subsidy of 25-30 per cent. will be given by the State, which will also provide further credit facilities. Moreover, the Government has announced its willingness to enter into five-year contracts for grain storage in respect of the new buildings.

These new buildings are to be completed by February. In 1935, Germany possessed first rate storage for 5,200,000 tons of grain, and this capacity has been increased since then by a further 400,000 tons. The new buildings will range from warehouses capable of holding 3,000 tons to silos with a storage capacity of 5-10,444 tons,
but smaller units will also be constructed by private firms.

The Government has not only agreed to give considerable financial help to the project, it has also arranged for the supply of the necessary raw materials and labour to execute it.

AUCTION FOR FISHING GROUNDS

Tokyo, Jan. 10. (Transocean).—
In the course of negotiations concerning Japan's fishing rights in the Bering Sea, the Sea of Okhotsk and the Sea of Japan, between the Soviet Foreign Commissar, M. Litvinoff, and the Japanese Ambassador,
Mr. Togo, the former informed the Ambassador, according to the semi-official news agency, that all fishing grounds hitherto in possession of Japan would be put up for auction during February.

The news agency states that the Ambassador repeatedly called M.
Litvinoff's attention to the fact that Moscow's attitude flagrantly contradicted Japan's guaranteed Treaty rights.

M. Litvinoff's remarks that the sale by auction of the fishing grounds need not interfere with continuation of the negotiations, elicited the reply from the Ambasador that Moscow must bear full responsibility for the eventual breakdown of the negotiations and for aggravation of the tension between Japan and the Soviet.

U.S. PLANE SHIPMENTS TO JAPAN STOPPED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. (Reuter).—An appeal by Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, to American aircraft manufacturers not to export planes or bombs to countries whose armed forces are accused of bombing civilian populations has been almost completely successful in preventing such American supplies reaching Japan, according to the annual report of the National Munitions Control Board.

Mr. Hull's appeal for voluntary co-operation by manufacturers was issued on July 1. Since then the exports of aircraft to Japan have been negligible, although they totaled nearly $9,000,000 in the first six months of the year.

According to the report, there was only one notable exception
among the manufacturers agreeing with the Government's policy.

AVERAGE RELIGION OF CHINESE WOMAN

Interesting Lecture By Miss Li Luk-wah

A LECTURE OF UNUSUAL INTEREST was given before a meeting of the Victoria Diocesan Missionary Association at St. Andrew's Church Hall last night by Miss Li Luk-wah, an instructress at The School for the Deaf in Kowloon City. The subject was, "The Religion of the Average Chinese Woman."

Miss Li proved herself to be possessed of an unusually large fund of information on the subject and her collection of candles, joss-sticks, and lucky papers and money, with which she illustrated the lecture, were later well-thumbed by many interested people who were of one voice in that they seldom had experienced being present at such an interesting and informative talk.

It would appear from Miss Li's lecture that the average Chinese woman who is not too heavily touched by the cloak of modernism would spend annually in the pursuit of luck via the machinations of many gods a sum as large as $200. Modernism, however, has already crept into Chinese superstition, a perusal of the objects in Miss Li's collection revealed.

Money that is burned to-day to travel into the unknown and add to the fortune of the deceased relates in the other world resembles the modern bank-note to the extent even of having inscribed on it in English the name of the "bank" issuing it and the words in English, "for use in the other world."

MASS WEDDING

A glance at the cover of the latest almanack used to determine the lucky and unlucky days of the year for the performance of various tasks reveals a picture of a modern Chinese institution, a mass wedding. Evidently, the compilers are cognizant of the trend of modern thought and have prepared for any emergency in the brought about by changes in social institutions. Now, we are led to believe by this cover-page illustration, the almanack will tell its

CONSULAR BAG AFFAIR

British Officials
Prepare Inquiry

LONDON, Jan. 10. (B.W.S.).—Sir Wesley Sterry, judicial member who will assist the British Charge D'Affaires at San Juan de Luz, Mr.
O'Malley, and the Acting British Agent at Burgos, Mr. C. Jerram, in the inquiry into charges brought against British officials in connection with the incident of the official mail bag, is leaving London to-day for San Juan de Luz, and the inquiry will be opened as soon after his arrival as necessary facilities are assured in co-operation with the Spanish Nationalist authorities.

Mr. Jerram arrived in Burgos last night to make renewed contact with the authorities there with the view to obtaining knowledge of the charges and evidence against the persons concerned, as well as to ensure the presence at the inquiry of Mr. E. Golding, British Vice-Consul at San Sebastian, who has been put under arrest by the Nationalists.

DR. ATAL RETURNS TO CHUNGKING

Dr. M. Atal, head of the Indian Medical Mission to China, returned to Chungking yesterday afternoon by way of Haiphong. Dr.
Atal took with him a complete set of X-ray apparatus, which will prove of value in the Mission's work at the front, says "Central News."

The other members of the Mission, it is learned, are waiting for their leader at Chungking. Upon Dr. Atal's return, the Mission will start out again to Shensi.

"PERFECT DAY"

Included in the calendar of lucky and unlucky days that is zealously followed by many a Chinese woman even to-day are the "perfect day" (sing yat) and the "good riddance day" (cheu yat). On the former occasion nothing can go wrong and one would be fully protected by the gods should she contract a marriage, open a business, or embark on any enterprise whatsoever.

The latter occasion served as a day of general spring-cleaning
when taking a son or daughter out of the house at midnight would give the same son or daughter a new lease on life in a year of better health or even better behaviour. The speaker revealed that as a little girl she had been led out of the house, although she could not remember if it was because she was a sickly or only a naughty girl.

SIMPLE PROCESS

Of much solace to superstitious
Chinese is the possibility of "changing luck." The process is simple enough and involves the procedure of following a Taoist monk around and around. The monk, during the ceremony, mutters to himself appropriate incantations to make the gods willing.
It is possible even to "borrow riches" by similar means, although spiritual and not material credit results.

The magic number appears to be
3. To burn nine sets of three incense sticks three times a year for three years, during the first,
seventh, and eleventh months of the year is a guarantee for good fortune.

AIR SUPREMACY OF AMERICA CHALLENGED

WASHINGTON, January 10 (Reuter).—A warning that the feverish expansion of military and commercial air fleets by foreign nations is challenging America's leadership in aviation is contained in the report to Congress by the National Advisory Committee on Aviation.

The Committee, of which Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and Mr.
Orville Wright (the aviation pioneers) are members, insists that effectiveness of design is more important than mere numbers of aircraft.

The report recommends that production of American planes be increased, more funds appropriated for aeronautical research and experiments be continued with lighter-than-air craft.

MISSION TO AUSTRALIA
LONDON, Jan. 10. (Reuter).—The great strategic importance of the British air mission to Australia is emphasised by Reuter's air correspondent.

The correspondent states that Australian aircraft production is designed to meet Australia's own defence needs, and in case of emergency the needs of New Zealand and part of the Singapore requirements.

Thus subsequently there would be adequate production at both ends of the Empire air route

SHEFFIELD SHIELD

BRISBANE, Jan. 10. (Reuter).—
In a Sheffield Shield cricket match played to-day, Queensland scored 230 and 73 for 1 and South Australia 557.
